

The Community Action movement was created in 1964, as result of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964. Since that time, Community Action has become a national network of local agencies that exist to develop solutions to poverty. More than 330,000 Iowans are assisted annually by Iowa's eighteen (18) Community Action Agencies (CAAs) through a wide range of services that are at the forefront of innovative strategies to empower low-income citizens to become self-sufficient and full participants in their communities.

The primary navigation features ICAA services, news, events, video and image libraries. Secondary navigation highlights more information related to programs & services, ARRA reporting, and data & statistics. Tertiary navigation offers access to additional resources, jobs, volunteers and member access.

What Is Your Agency?

ICAA partners with 18 action agencies across the state of Iowa. A goal of the new site was to improve the connection between all agencies and to provide users with a simple option to select their local action agency. Users can make their selection by either clicking on their location in the map or by selecting an agency to the right of the map.

2009-2010 ARRA Reports By Agency, Category & Date

Many of the programs & services administered by ICAA and its partner agencies are funded through the Reinvestment & Recovery Act. As a result full reporting and accountability is required to accurately show the use of the funds. To achieve this AdEasel created a management tool that allows for simple reports to be created and uploaded to the site.

Programs & PSA Videos

Video functionality was a feature that was important to ICAA in creation of the new site. ICAA & partner Community Action Agencies now have the ability to post videos related to their unique programs and services as well as to showcase success stories from the people who have had their lives significantly improved by the assistance they've received from ICAA.
